

CURRICULUM VITAE

Emily Gadbois, PhD, MS, MA
Assistant Professor of Health Services, Policy, and Practice
Brown University School of Public Health

My program of research focuses on how to optimally structure the health care system for older adults. Much of this work is focused on long term services and supports, and includes qualitative methods to characterize experiences by learning directly from older adults. This methodological expertise in qualitative approaches uniquely positions me, facilitating a diverse research portfolio united by my overarching research mission: to advance healthcare payment and delivery solutions that improve access, equity, and outcomes for older adults by engaging with payers, providers, and healthcare users.
