UNIVERSITY TEACHING ROLES (Continued)

LSU Specialist in Blood Banking (SBB) Program Lecturer
Medical Center of Louisiana at New Orleans
2009 - October 31, 2014

Co-Program Director, LSU Master of Science Degree, Pathology
Translational Research Track 2008-2010.
(The program was discontinued when M.S. programs were eliminated by Louisiana State Board of Regents.)

Course Director, PATH 250 (Molecular Medicine in Translational Research), a required course for the LSU Master of Science in Pathology, Translational Research Track, 2008-2010

LSU Curriculum Development/Implementation:

Pathology Residency – Created two intensive introductory courses for the incoming pathology residents:

Blood Banking and Transfusion Medicine:

Two-month rotation at the start of residency with comprehensive lectures, lab work, and assessments. 32 hrs of lectures; 15 hrs of lab.

Medical Microbiology:

A one-month first-year rotation with lectures, lab work, and assessments. 20 hrs of lectures; 10 hrs of lab.

School of Medicine – Created and implemented the curriculum for the two lecture series in the Clinical Pathology Module (PATH 201):

Blood Banking and Transfusion Medicine
Medical Microbiology

LSU Creation of Enduring Teaching Materials:

The medical school and pathology residency lectures (above) include comprehensive PowerPoint materials to be used for test preparation, boards preparation, and clinical reference.
