2018 Reviewer, National Academy of Medicine Committee on Nutrigenomics, Washington DC
2021-Present Advisory Board Member, Washington University Center for Diabetes Translation Research (CDTR), MO.

Faculty Search Committees:

- 2002 Member, Faculty Search Committee (Bioinformatics), Division of Preventive Medicine, Harvard Medical School and Brigham and Women's Hospital, Boston, MA
2006-2007 Member, Faculty Search Committee (Biostatistics), UCLA School of Public Health, Los Angeles, CA
2006-2008 Member, Faculty Search Committee (Nutrition), UCLA School of Public Health, Los Angeles, CA
2006-2008 Member, Faculty Search Committee (Computation Biology), UCLA School of Public Health, Los Angeles, CA
2014 Chair, Faculty Search Committee (Molecular Epidemiology of Diabetes Research Track), Brown University, Providence, RI
2015 Chair, Ad Hoc Promotion and Reappointment Committee (Assistant Professor of Epidemiology), Department of Epidemiology, Brown University

EDITORIAL ACTIVITIES (SELECTED)

- 1994- Reviewer, American Journal of Epidemiology, International Journal of Epidemiology, American Journal of Public Health, Journal of American College of Nutrition, Preventive Medicine, New England Journal of Medicine (NEJM), Journal of American Medical Association (JAMA), British Medical Journal (BMJ), The Lancet, Annals of Internal Medicine (Annals), Circulation, American Journal of Clinical Nutrition (AJCN), International Journal of Obesity, Obesity Research, Diabetes, Diabetes Care, American Journal of Human Genetics (AJHG), Annals of Human Genetics, European J of Clinical Nutrition, Journal of American College of Cardiology, Bioinformatics, Metabolism, Clinical Chemistry, Public Library of Science (PLoS ONE, PLoS Genetics); and many others
2005- Editorial Board Member, International Journal of Molecular Epidemiology and Genetics, Micronutrient Information Center, Linus Pauling Institute, Cytokines, Journal of Nutrition and Metabolism, Adipocyte, International Journal of Clinical and Experimental Medicine, Nutrition Discovery, AJCN, Journal of Chronic Diseases and Translational Medicine (CDTM)
2016-2018 Associate Editor, Journal of Diabetes
2017- Associate Editor, American Journal of Clinical Nutrition (AJCN)
2021- Associate Editor, Frontiers in Cardiovascular Medicine; Precision Nutrition

AWARDS AND HONORS (SELECTED)

- 1996-1998 Institutional National Research Service Award (F31), NIH and Harvard University,
1996 Lyman and Grew Scholarship for Professional Promise in Medical and Health Sciences, Harvard University, Cambridge, MA
1997 Individual National Research Service Award (F32), NIH, Bethesda, MD
1998 Keynote Speaker, Insulin Resistance, Hyperglycemia and Risk of Major Chronic Diseases: A Dietary Perspective. The 22nd Annual Scientific Meeting of the Australian Nutrition Society, Adelaide, Australia

- 2000-2004 Physician-Scientist Development Award (K08 DK02767), National Institute of Digestive, Diabetes, and Kidney diseases (NIDDK), NIH, Bethesda, MD
- 2002 Elected Fellow of the American College of Nutrition (FACN)
- 2002 Plenary Speaker, NIDDK Joint New Investigators and Network of Minority Research Investigators Workshop, NIH, Bethesda, MD
- 2002 Keynote Speaker, Dietary Carbohydrates and Health – Evolutionary Theory, Epidemiologic Observations, and Experimental Evidence, Chinese Academy of Preventive Medicine, Beijing, China
- 2004 Oak Ridge Institute of Science and Education (ORISE) Fellow Awarded by the Division of Nutrition and Physical Activity, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), Atlanta, GA
- 2004 External Examiner, Institute of Environmental Medicine, Karolinska Institute, Sweden
- 2004 Elected Fellow, Council on Epidemiology and Prevention, American Heart Association (FAHA), Dallas, TX
- 2005 Applied Research Award in Nutrition (one award per congress every four years), 1st Whole Grain Global Summit, Minneapolis, MN
- 2005 Plenary Speaker, Whole Grain and the Maintenance of Healthy Weight: Epidemiologic and Clinical Evidence. The 18th International Congress of Nutrition (ICN), Durban, South Africa
- 2005 Plenary Speaker, Diet Quality and Obesity. Canadian Society of Clinical Nutrition Annual Meeting, Montreal, Canada
- Meet the Expert Section (Elected Member), Society for Epidemiologic Research Annual Meeting (SER), Toronto, Ontario, Canada; Meet the Expert Section, 18th International Congress of Nutrition, Durban, South Africa
- One of the Top Papers Selected by NIH in its Annual Bibliography of Significant Advances in Dietary Supplements Research
- 2006 Elected Faculty Member, Delta Omega Public Health Honor Society
- Keynote Speaker, Dietary Factors and Reduced Disease Risk – Epidemiological Evidence. International Food & Health Innovation Conference, Malmo, Sweden
- Plenary Speaker, Epidemiologic Assessment of Chronic Diseases in the World and Dietary Implications. The 13th World Congress of Food Science and Technology, Nantes, France
- 2007 American Journal Clinical Nutrition (AJCN) Most Cited Original Research Articles 1998 – 2007 (first author of five original reports among the top 100 including the #1 most cited in the same 10-year period – original research paper #18); Research Featured by Prevention Magazine as one of the Top Ten Medical Breakthroughs of 2007 (original research paper #109);
- Professor in the Union (Elected by Students), UCLA Undergraduate Program;
- Keynote Speaker, Prevention and Treatment of Lifestyle-related Diseases and Metabolic Syndrome: Diet and Exercise. 22nd International Scientific Forum, Tokyo, Japan
- 2008 Plenary Speaker, Dietary and Molecular Causes of Metabolic Diseases: Integrating Evolutionary Theory, Epidemiologic Observations, and Clinical Experiments for Prevention. 10th Symposium on Molecular Diabetology in Asia, Guangzhou, China
- 2009 Co-Chair, Diabetes Technology Society, Personalized Medicine for Diabetes, San Francisco, CA
- Excellence in Mentoring, Graduate Division Summer Program, UCLA, Los Angeles, CA

- 2010 External Examiner, the Faculty of Graduate Studies, the University of Guelph, Ontario, Canada
- 2010 Chair, Symposium on Sex Hormones in Type 2 Diabetes and Cardio-metabolic Risk, 70th American Diabetes Association (ADA) Scientific Sections, Orlando, FL
- 2010 Distinguished Alumni Speaker, 25th Anniversary of University at Albany School of Public Health, Albany, NY
- 2010 Faculty1000 Medicine Award of a “Must Read” Certificate to the paper by Ding et al. NEJM 2009 (ref #131) - Faculty1000 identifies and evaluates the most important articles published by peer-nominated leading researchers and clinicians
- 2011 Council of Canadian Academies, Top 1% Most Highly Cited Investigators Worldwide
- 2011 Marquis’s Who’s Who in Medicine and Healthcare
- 2012 Elected Member, American Society of Clinical Investigation (ASCI)
- 2012 Elected Member, American Epidemiological Society (AES)
- 2012 Member, NHLBI Global Health Think Tank, Bethesda, MD
- 2012 Director’s Seminar, Understand Interactions for Curbing the Epidemics of Our time, Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center, Seattle, WA

REPORT OF RESEARCH

Narrative:

My research is focused on identifying risk factors for and distributions of complex diseases with special emphasis on understanding how our environment, genomes, and their interactions affect outcomes in diverse populations around the world (i.e., defined by sex, ethnicities, geopolitical regions, lifespan, and evolutionary forces). Employing state-of-the art multi-platforms and methodologies that typically cut across multiple domains and disciplines (e.g., nutrition, genetics, molecular biology, pathophysiology, statistics, and epidemiology), we conduct both observational and experimental studies to aid in causal inference.

The first substantive area of work is in nutrition where since 1993 I have been investigating the roles of dietary carbohydrates in the development of health or disease outcomes (e.g., tracing the classical "diet-heart" hypothesis). Using biomarkers, we were among the first to define and quantify dietary glycemic load (GL) in humans, then a novel nutritional concept that is now widely used in the clinical management of diabetes, nutritional epidemiology, and dietary feeding trials of diverse population around the world. In several large cohorts of men and women in the US, for example, we did the first series of prospective assessment of dietary GL and various carbohydrates classifications using biomarkers in relation to cardiovascular disease and relevant metabolic phenotypes (*Liu AJE 1994; Liu 1996; JAMA 1999; 2000; AJCN 1999;2000; 2001; 2003, Gross et al. AJCN 2004, Liu Diabetes 2006). Funded by the CDC and NIH from 1993 to 2005, we developed, refined, and validated dietary GL and quantify their functional roles in the development of a wide range of biochemical intermediaries and clinical outcomes in both observational and experimental settings. This work has also shown that raising plasma levels of TG and hsCRP while lowering levels of sex-hormone binding protein (SHBG) may be mechanisms whereby a high dietary GL may increase risk for chronic diseases, providing some of the first empirical evidence in support of the notion that intake of refined carbohydrates and a high-GL increases risks of many chronic diseases (Liu and Sun, J Diabetes 2017; Liu AJCN 2018).

Our subsequent research has further identified components of what constitute a low GL diet contributing to lower plasma levels of insulin and glucose, markers of systemic inflammation, and reduced risk of CVD and diabetes. This body of work on the biological classification and assessment of various dietary carbohydrates (and micronutrient profiles) in relation to vascular outcomes has improved our understanding of nutritional management and interventions for obesity, diabetes and CVD. Since 2005, some of this work has been summarized as the scientific basis for the Dietary Guidelines for Americans (2005, 2010, and 2015). Together with Professor Walter Willett at Harvard, we have authored several authoritative chapters in textbooks including the most widely used and authoritative medical textbook of UpToDate since 2004 (Liu and Willett 2004-2022/ it has been updated in 18 editions).

My research team was also the first to prospectively identified dietary magnesium to glucose homeostasis characterizing several significant gene-diet interactions in T2D development (Song et al. Diabetes Care 2007 and BMC Med Genet 2009; Chan et al. JCEM 2014), including a functional variant of the TRMP6 gene (responsible for magnesium active transport) that was shown to increase T2D susceptibility whose effects only expressed among women with low magnesium intake. Subsequently, we designed and conducted two randomized-controlled intervention trials testing the clinical efficacy of magnesium supplementation among overweight/obese individuals or among obese mothers and their offspring for preventing diabetes-related phenotypes. We observed that Mg supplementation for four weeks significantly decreased plasma levels of insulin and C-peptide and led to differential regulation of genes and proteins related to metabolic and inflammatory pathways (Chacko et al. AJCN 2010; Cho et al. 2013). Using biomarkers of lipids (high density lipoprotein cholesterol, HDL, and triglycerides, TG), inflammation (high-sensitivity C reactive protein, hsCRP, IL-6, and TNFalphaR2), endothelial dysfunction markers (ICAM, VCAM, and E-selectin), and aging (Telomere length), we now continue to pursue more comprehensive and in-depth determination of the physiologic relevancies and clinical utilities of GL (and its associated micro-nutrients and minerals) in diverse populations in the US, China, Brazil, and Ghana (Liu et al. AJCN 2001; 2002; Ford and Liu Arch Int Med/JAMA 2001; Li et al. JAMA 2021).

The second main area is in the clinical epidemiology and methodologic space where we have attempted to develop a systematic framework termed G6P Analytics® (global, precision, prediction, personalized, prevention, population, and policy) for precision medicine and global health (*Liu Atherosclerosis 2003; *Song et al. Annals of Intern Med 2003 and AJHG 2004; *Hao et al. Genet Epidemiol 2005; *Wang et al. BMC Bioinformatics 2005; Chao et al. Arch Int Med/JAMA 2010; Liu and Song Diabetes 2010). The G6P Analytics® framework employs multiple disciplinary methods for integration, interpretation, and implementation across multiple levels of causal inference with special emphasis on making causal inference in assessing not only the roles of dietary factors but also genomic variants for chronic disease risk (Song et al. AJHG 2004; Ann Intern Med/JAMA 2004; Human Molecular Genetics 2007*). For example, while actively pursuing answers to some mechanistic questions related to inflammation and endothelial dysfunction for diabetes development (*Liu Arch Int Med/JAMA 2007; Song et al. Diabetes 2007 and Diabetes Care 2007), we conducted the first comprehensive and systematic assessment of the roles of sex-hormones and their binding globulin (SHBG) in T2D development (Ding et al. JAMA 2006; Diabetologia 2007; NEJM 2009; Chen et al. Clinical Chemistry 2012). We found that specific levels of sex-steroids and SHBG may explain a longstanding paradox regarding sex-specific differences in cardiometabolic outcomes observed in clinical settings, first identifying several germline mutations in the SHBG gene that influence the risk of developing T2D (one increases while the other decreases risk). We have subsequently shown in multiple populations around the world the direct role of SHBG in affecting T2D risk (Ding et al. NEJM 2009; Frayling et al. HMG 2010; Chen et al Clinical Chemistry 2012). Further, we showed that circulating levels of SHBG can be used not only as a predictive marker for genetic susceptibility of developing T2D but also as a cumulative measure of gene-environment interaction in affecting the clustering of metabolic syndrome and T2D risk (Goto et al. Diabetes 2010; Li et al. Diabetes Care 2010; Chen et al. Clin Chem 2012).

The third main area is in global health where in recent years I have devoted much effort to the development of a global collaborative network for evidence-based clinical and population health precision practice for chronic disease prevention and control. Particularly in China and Brazil, I have helped nurture the development numerous clinical and population studies of cardiometabolic outcomes across individuals' lifespan and across generations. Some of these studies are still ongoing including 1) The Shanghai Obesity and Diabetes Study (SOS) (*Xu et al., BMC public health 2010, Wang et al. Obesity 2016; Diabetes 2016); 2) The prospective study of Brazilian Cardiovascular Health (EISA Brasil) (*Lin et al. JAHA 2015); and 3) The Harbin Famine Study of Families (*Li et al., AJCN 2016). I have collaborated with colleagues worldwide in developing and integrating state-of-the art biochemical and genetic assessment into both observational epidemiology and clinical intervention (Liu Diabetes 2006; *Hsu et al. Diabetes 2008; Liu and Sun, J of Diabetes 2016; Lin et al. Chinese J Endocrinology and Metabolism 2017). These studies will prove to be of unique and invaluable values for young and aspiring investigators who want to seek answers to some of the aged-old questions of biological, clinical and public health significance (*indicates that the first authors were trainees or mentees under my direct or primary supervision)

TEACHING LEADERSHIP ROLE

Since 1993, I have taught and mentored undergraduate, graduate and medical students in the health sciences. I recognize the challenges and opportunities in understanding the explosion of biological data for etiologic inquiry. At Harvard, I was among the first to introduce the assessment of high-throughput biotechnologies and genomic science into public health and clinical settings illustrating the application of epidemiologic principles and relevant statistical methods to the development of evidence-based clinical and public health practices. I developed and taught a semester-long public health core course on research synthesis, systematic and critical review of medical literature, and meta-analysis. At UCLA, I developed several novel courses with curricula that emphasize the application of quantitative methods and evidence-based principles to the exploration and integration of comprehensive biological and clinical data. While biomedical scientists need to be proficient in applying epidemiologic principles and statistical methods, epidemiologists need to learn how to sensibly incorporate, analyze, and interpret emerging genomic data in diverse populations characterized by other phenotypic variables. Thus, I led the integration of training activities across the entire campus for a series of didactic courses described above (EPI254, 257, 258 and 297). Because of these innovative teaching activities bridging disciplinary boundaries, I earned a prestigious award from the BWF foundation to establish the UCLA inter-school Training Program in Metabolic Diseases (BWF-IT-MD, <http://mdtp.mednet.ucla.edu>). This program is one of our nation's first transdisciplinary PhD program integrating training in both laboratory and population sciences to provide a comprehensive transdisciplinary education in all facets of metabolic diseases. From 2009 and 2013, I took the lead in expanding these teaching activities via several public symposia, including the “Translational Research for Metabolic Disease Prevention: From Molecules to Populations” that was broadcasted by the University of California TV network (UCTV) (www.uctv.edu or www.youtube.com), and public lectures and grand rounds throughout the U.S. and internationally. At Brown, I have developed and taught four graduate-level courses in epidemiology (PHP2008 Epidemiologic Interpretation, PHP2018 Epidemiology of Cardiometabolic Health, PHP2220 Nutritional Epidemiology, and PHP2118 Genomics Epidemiology).

In summary, teaching and mentoring has always been at the top of my scholarly agenda. I believe firmly the nobility of our profession particularly in generating new knowledge and in cultivating the next generation of biomedical scientists and public health professionals. I see the process of truth seeking as a privilege and fun communal experience, and I am thankful for the good fortune of working with many exceptionally dedicated trainees over the years.

Advisory and Supervisory Responsibilities in Clinical or Laboratory Settings

On average, I devote 16 hours/week in the teaching, mentoring and supervising trainees. At Harvard, UCLA and Brown, I have directly supervised 120 undergraduate and graduate students, postdoctoral fellows, and junior faculty members (~70% women, ~50% Asian, 30% Caucasian, and 10% African Americans and others). Some of my trainees have gone on to become productive and successful colleagues effectively contributing to fields of nutrition, clinical medicine, public health, and epidemiology. My responsibilities include advising thesis work, arranging for internship opportunities, didactic teaching, as well as consultation and mentoring.

REGIONAL, NATIONAL, AND INTERNATIONAL CONTRIBUTIONS

I have given ~200 invited presentations (being invited many more that I cannot accept), including keynote or plenary lectures at professional venues (the NIH, the CDC, AHA, ADA, WHO, and Gordon conferences), and at top academic institutions around the world:

1993:

1. Evaluation of the Behavioral Risk Factors Surveillance System. Epidemic Intelligence Service (EIS) Surveillance Conferences, CDC, Atlanta, GA

1994:

2. The Reliability of Recalled Alcohol Intake. Monthly Seminar, National Center for Chronic Disease Prevention and Health Promotion, CDC, Atlanta, GA
3. A Meta-Analysis on the Relationship between Alcohol Intake and the Risk of Breast Cancer, CDC, Atlanta, GA

1995:

4. Alcohol and Body Weight: Where Do All the Calories Go? The Boston Obesity Research Coordinating Center, Boston, MA

1998:

5. Collinearity – Statistical Nemesis or Biological Reality? Assessing the Glycemic Effect of Carbohydrate on CHD Risk. Harvard Human Nutrition Seminar, Boston, MA
6. Symposium on New Development in Diet and Heart Disease: Dietary Glycemic Load and CHD Among US Nurses, The 31st SER Conference, Chicago, IL
7. Keynote Speaker: Insulin Resistance, Hyperglycemia and Risk of Major Chronic Diseases: A Dietary Perspective, The 22nd Annual Scientific Meeting of the Australian Nutrition Society, Adelaide, Australia

1999:

8. Dietary Glycemic Load and Coronary Heart Disease, Division of Nutrition and Physical Activity, CDC, Atlanta, GA
9. Fats vs. Carbohydrates and Foods vs. Nutrients for Chronic Disease Prevention, American Cancer Society (ACS), Atlanta, GA

2000:

10. Methodological Considerations in Assessing Dietary Glycemic Load in epidemiologic Studies and Interpreting Findings for Coronary Heart Disease, Harvard Human Nutrition Seminar, Department of Nutrition, Harvard School of Public Health, Boston, MA

11. Intake of Whole Grains in Relation to Risk of Type 2 Diabetes and Coronary Heart Disease, The Vahouny Fiber Conference, Washington DC
12. The Impact of Glycemic Indices of Foods, Physical Activity, and Caloric Distribution on Health. Workshop on Dietary Reference Intakes (DRI) for Macronutrients convened by the Food and Nutrition Board (FNB), Institute of Medicine, National Academy of Science, Washington DC

2001:

13. Insulin Resistance and Risk of Major Chronic Diseases: A Dietary Perspective for Curbing the Epidemic of Our Time, The World Federation of Public Health Associations' 9th International Congress, Beijing, P.R. China
14. Glycemic Index and Health: The Quality of the Evidence, Workshop organized by the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO)/World Health Organization (WHO), Bandol, France
15. The Emerging Significance of Dietary Glycemic Load: Fact or Fiction? The Welch Epidemiology and Prevention Center, School of Medicine, The John Hopkins University, Baltimore, MD
16. Plenary Speaker: Plant-based Foods, Antioxidants, and Phytochemical and the Prevention of Cardiovascular Disease – Epidemiological Evidence. The Antioxidant Initiative Conference, Oldways Preservation Trust, Lake Tahoe, CA
17. Insulin Resistance and Hyperglycemia in Relation to Diabetes and Heart Disease – Dietary Perspective with Implication in Cancer Research. Division of Population Sciences and Genetics, National Cancer Institute (NCI), Bethesda, MD
18. The Women's Health Study and the Physicians' Health Study II, The Longevity Consortium Workshop, Reykjavik, Iceland
19. Keynote Speaker: Dietary Carbohydrates and Coronary Health: Why, How Much, What Types, and for Whom? The Symposium on Glycemic Index and Health. University of Melbourne, Melbourne, Australia
20. Keynote Speaker: Dietary Glycemic Load As a novel Functional Measure in the Prevention of Type 2 DM and Heart Disease, The 19th Nutritional Foundation Conference of the University of Sydney, Sydney, Australia

2002:

21. The Emerging Significance of Dietary Glycemic Index and Load: Functional Concepts in Dietary Studies of Metabolic Diseases, UCLA, Los Angeles, CA
22. Keynote Speaker: The Importance of Distinguishing Types of Starch in Dietary Studies of Metabolic Disease, The 14th Annual Food Focus of the American Association of Cereal Chemists, MN
23. The Women's Health Study and Physicians' Health Study, Longevity Consortium Workshop, NIA and UCSF, Napa, CA
24. Dietary Carbohydrate and Coronary Health: Evolutionary Theory, Epidemiologic Observation, and Experimental Evidence, Tufts University, School of Nutrition, MA
25. Emerging Findings in Dietary Study of Obesity, Bell Institute of Human Nutrition, General Mills Inc., MN
26. Keynote Speaker: Dietary Carbohydrates and Health – Evolutionary Theory, Epidemiologic Observations, and Experimental Evidence, Workshop on Nutrition and Health, Chinese Academy of Preventive Medicine, Beijing, P.R. China.
27. Keynote Speaker: Whole- Versus Refined? Grain Foods in Health and Disease, Shanghai Nutrition Society Annual Meeting, Shanghai, P.R. China

2003:

28. Plenary Speaker: Healthy People Healthy Grains – Epidemiologic Evidence, International Conference on the Mediterranean Diet, Boston, MA

29. Dietary Glycemic Index and Load: Physiological Concepts and Practical Guidance in Dietary Studies of Metabolic Diseases, Slone Center for Epidemiologic Studies, Boston University, Boston, MA
30. What the Science of Genomics Can or Cannot Do for Nutrition Research, The 44th Annual Scientific Meeting of the American College of Nutrition, Nashville, TN
31. Plenary Speaker: Prevention of Diabetes by Diet and Lifestyle Modification, The 44th Annual Scientific Meeting of the American College of Nutrition, Nashville, TN
32. Symposium on Diet and Obesity, The Scientific Section of the American Heart Association, Orlando, FL
33. APOE Genotypes and Coronary Heart Disease Risk – Can Meta-Analysis Provide an Answer? The Scientific Section of the American Heart Association, Orlando, FL

2004:

34. The Influence of Genetic Variants and Nutrition on the Development of Vascular Diseases: Current Status and Future Direction, UCLA School of Public Health, Los Angeles, CA
35. The Nutritional and Genetic Epidemiology of Type 2 Diabetes Mellitus: Current Status and Future Direction, University of Massachusetts Medical School, Worcester, MA
36. The Emerging Significance of Dietary Carbohydrates in the Context of a Sedentary Lifestyle for the Development of Chronic Diseases, Karolinska Institute, Sweden
37. A Large Association Study of Candidate Genes for Type 2 Diabetes Risk in Multiethnic Women: A Progress Report on SNP Selection Strategy, Harvard Program on Molecular and Genetic Epidemiology, Boston, MA
38. GrandRound Speaker: Dietary Causes of Metabolic Diseases: Evolutionary Theory, Epidemiologic Observations, and Clinical Experiments, Medicine Grand Round, University of Massachusetts Medical School, Worcester, MA
39. Keynote Speaker: Diet and Lifestyle Determinants of Obesity and Type 2 Diabetes: An Assessment of Metabolic and Epidemiologic Evidence for Prevention, Journey to Excellence: 12th Annual Acute Care Nursing Symposium, Columbus, OH

2005:

40. Dietary Determinants of Metabolic Diseases: An Overview of the Relevant Evolution Theories, Epidemiologic Observations, and Clinical Experiments, Harvard Program in Nutrition, Boston, MA
41. Keynote Speaker: Dietary Determinants of Metabolic Syndrome, Canadian Nutrition Society Annual Meeting, Montreal, Canada
42. Plenary speaker: Whole Grain and the Maintenance of Healthy Weight: Epidemiologic and Clinical Evidence, The 18th International Congress of Nutrition, Durban, South Africa
43. Plenary speaker: Whole Grains and Obesity. Whole Grains Health: A Global Summit, Minneapolis, MN
44. Plenary speaker: Diet Quality and Obesity. Canadian Society of Clinical Nutrition Annual Meeting, Montreal, Canada

2006:

45. Plenary speaker: Dietary Glycemic Load is Important. American Heart Association Annual Spring Conference, Washington DC
46. Symposium Speaker, Public Health Implications of Stem-cell Research, UCLA Center for Society and Genetics, Los Angeles, CA
47. Dietary Determinants of Metabolic Diseases, Vanderbilt University School of Medicine, Nashville, TN
48. Dietary Glycemic Load and Heart Disease – A New Paradigm, Sun Yet-Sen University, School of Public Health, Guangzhou, P.R. China
49. Nature vs. Culture, and the Recent Epidemic of Metabolic Diseases, Institute of Nutritional Science, Chinese Academies of Sciences, Shanghai, P.R. China

50. Dietary Factors and Reduced Disease Risk – Epidemiological Evidence, International Food & Health Innovation Conference, Malmo, Sweden
51. Glycemic Load and Health Outcomes, World Health Organization, Geneva, Switzerland
52. Plenary Speaker: Epidemiology of Chronic Disease in the World and Dietary Implications, The 13th World Congress of Food Science and Technology, Nantes, France.
53. Dairy Intake and Risk of Type 2 Diabetes in Women, Milk, Hormones, and Human Health Workshop, Boston, MA.
54. Plenary Speaker: Glycemic Load and Glycemic Index Overweight and Obesity Relevant Markers, International Life Science Institute, Nice, France.

55. Plenary Speaker: Frontier in Diabetes Research Sex Hormones as Predictors for Type 2 Diabetes, American Diabetes Association 67th Annual Scientific Sessions (ADA), Chicago IL.
56. World Health Organization (WHO)'s Scientific Update on Dietary Carbohydrates in Human Nutrition One Step Forward Two Steps Back, UCLA Training Program on Public Health Nutrition, Los Angeles, CA
57. Genomic Science and its Implication to Preventive and Predictive Medicine, Sun Yat-Sen University-UCLA Leadership Program in Academia, UCLA School of Education and Information Management, Los Angeles, CA
58. Circulating Levels of Resistin in Relation to Metabolic Markers and Risk of Developing Type 2 Diabetes in Postmenopausal Women, 2007 American Heart Association Scientific Section (AHA), Orlando, FL
59. From "Sick" Populations to "Sick" Molecules - Understanding the Modern Epidemics of Metabolic Diseases for Prevention, University of Southern California, Los Angeles, CA
60. The Modern Epidemics of Metabolic Diseases in Westernized Populations - An Epidemiologic Perspective, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, Atlanta, GA
61. Plenary Speaker: "Prevention and Treatment of Lifestyle-related Diseases and Metabolic Syndrome: Diet and Exercise", 22nd International Scientific Forum, Tokyo, Japan
62. My Career in Academic Medicine and Public Health, Sun Yat-sen University – Cancer Center, Guangzhou, China

63. Magnesium in the Treatment of Diabetes and Cardio-metabolic Syndrome, Gordon Conference on Magnesium in Biochemical Processes and Medicine, Ventura, CA
64. Grand Round Speaker: Dietary, Hormonal and Genetic Causes of
65. Metabolic Diseases: Recent Findings in Diverse Populations, Endocrine Grand Rounds, UCLA, Los Angeles, CA
66. Plenary Speaker: Nutrigenetics: Current Status, American Society of Nutrition Professional Development Symposium, San Diego, CA
67. Plenary Speaker: Plant-based Diet, European Union Health Grain Consortium Annual Meeting, Madrid, Spain
68. Plenary Speaker: Fiber and Obesity, Canadian Society for Clinical Nutrition-CSNS Annual Scientific Meeting, Toronto, Canada
69. Plenary Speaker: Dietary and Molecular Causes of Metabolic Diseases: Integrating Evolutionary Theory, Epidemiologic Observations, and Clinical Experiments for Prevention, 10th Symposium on Molecular Diabetology in Asia, Guangzhou, China

2009:

70. Sex-Hormone Biology in Type 2 Diabetes, Family Medicine and Community Medicine Grand Round, Brown University, Rhode Island
71. Diabetes Risk Prediction and Clinical Implications, The 9th Emerging Information & Technology Conference, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, MA

72. Gene, Environment, and Epidemics of Our Time: Can We Put Humpty-Dumpty Back Together for Prevention, Division of Cancer Prevention and Control at UCLA, Los Angeles, CA
73. Sex Hormone Biology in Type 2 Diabetes: Translating Epidemiologic Observations to Clinical Risk Stratification and Interventions, Kaiser Permanente Southern California, Pasadena, CA
74. Plenary Speaker: Genetics Etiology, Renal Week, 42nd Annual Meeting & Scientific Exposition, San Diego, CA
75. Plenary Speaker: Translational Research for Metabolic Disease Prevention: From Molecules to Populations Symposium, "Biomarkers for Type 2 Diabetes Prevention: Translating Epidemiologic Observations to Clinical Risk Stratification and Intervention", Broadcasted by UCTV, Los Angeles, CA

2010:

76. Molecular Markers of Complex Diseases, Department of Community Health, Brown University, Providence, Rhode Island
77. Dean's Distinguished Speakers Series. Genes, Diets and "Epidemics of Our Time". University at Albany School of Public Health, Albany, NY
78. Recent Advances in Metabolic Diseases, Department of Epidemiology, Columbia University, New York, NY

2011:

79. Molecular Epidemiology of Metabolic Diseases, Department of Community Health, Brown University, Providence, Rhode Island
80. Chair Speaker: Translational Epidemiology: Challenges and Opportunities, Department of Epidemiology, University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, PA

2012:

81. A prospective study of telomere and its bio-regulators as predictors for clinical diabetes in women, Seminar of the Women's Health Initiative Scientific Interest Group on Aging, Los Angeles, CA
82. Understand interactions for curbing the epidemics of our time, Director's Seminar, Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center, Seattle, WA
83. Plenary Speaker: Incorporating systems biology into observational and experimental studies of gene-nutrition interaction, Symposium on gene-nutrition interaction, 45th Society for Epidemiologic Research (SER), Minneapolis, MN
84. Invited Speaker (Grand Round): Magnesium, vitamin D, inflammation and vascular outcomes, OBGYN Grand Round, UCLA, Los Angeles, CA
85. Curbing the epidemics of our time: Collaborative experience to improve understanding. NHLBI Global Health Think Tank. NIH, Bethesda, MD
86. Challenges in nutritional epidemiology of chronic diseases, WHO workshop, Beirut, Lebanon
87. Speaker (Grand Round): Sex hormones and sex-hormone binding protein (SHBG) as predictors for diabetes and metabolic syndrome, Endocrine Grand Round, University of Utah, Salt Lake City, Utah
88. Plenary Speaker: Evaluating the sex-steroid axis and sex hormone binding globulin (SHBG) for clinical risk stratification of diabetes and metabolic syndrome, 10th international congress on insulin resistance, obesity, diabetes and cardiovascular risk, Los Angeles, CA
89. Plenary Speaker: Recent advances and future challenges in studying gene-nutrition interactions. The 2ND International Symposium on Nutrition and Health. GuangZhou, China

2013:

90. Grand Round Speaker: Diabetes' Sexy Axis: Time to incorporating sex-steroids and sex hormone binding globulin (SHBG) for clinical risk stratification. Combined Endocrine Grand Round, Department of Medicine, Alpert Warren School of Medicine and Rhode Island Hospital, Providence, RI
91. Plenary Speaker: 11th Annual World Congress on Insulin Resistance, Diabetes and Cardiovascular Disease (WCIRDC), Los Angeles, CA
92. Plenary Speaker: Novel biomarkers for understanding vascular diseases: risk stratification and interventions. University of São Paulo, São Paulo, Brazil
93. Symposium/plenary Speaker: Application of Mendelian Randomization in observational studies. University of São Paulo, Brazil.
94. Symposium Speaker: Utilities of sex steroids and sex-hormone binding globulin in clinical risk stratification. Brazilian congress of cardiology, São Paulo, Brazil.

2014:

95. Shared molecular pathways and gene networks for cardiovascular disease and type 2 diabetes in women across diverse ethnicities. Epidemiology and Prevention | Nutrition, Physical Activity and Metabolism 2014 Scientific Sessions, San Francisco, CA
96. Invited Speaker (Grand Round): Consensus and controversies: the 2013 ACC/AHA Cholesterol Guideline. Grand Round, Department of Medicine, Rhodes Island Hospital, Providence, RI
97. Epidemiology of Cardiovascular Outcomes. Guangdong General Hospital and Gaungdong Academy of Medical Sciences, Guangzhou, China
98. Symposium Speaker: Implementation of Cohort Studies in Diabetes Research and prevention, 18th China Diabetes Society Scientific Meeting, Guangzhou, China
99. Moving Dietary Research toward a Standard Clinical Practice. University of Copenhagen, Denmark
100. Establishing consistent standards for whole grain foods in research and practice. United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), Washington, DC
101. Shared Molecular Pathways for Cardiovascular Disease and Diabetes in Women Webinar, Obesity and Diabetes Interest Group in the Women's Health Initiative, Washington, DC
102. Grains & Health Public Private Partnership Workshop, Washington DC

2015:

103. Epidemiology of Cardiometabolic Health. The Brown-China Forum on Public Health Research and Health Policy, Brown University, Providence, RI
104. Diabetes Sexy Axis: Sex Steroids and Their Binding Protein in Clinical Risk Stratification and Interventions. Medicine Grand Rounds. Sun Yat-Sen University School of Medicine, Guangzhou, China
105. Assessment of Therapeutic Targets using Integrative Genomics. The 88th Annual Scientific Meeting of the American Epidemiological Society, Berkeley, CA
106. Comprehensive Assessment of Therapeutic Targets and Off-Targets Using Integrative Genomics and Epidemiology. Symposium of Cardiovascular Basic & Translational Medicine in 17th South China International Congress of Cardiology. Guangzhou, China.
107. Molecular Epidemiologic Investigation by A Clinical Endocrinologist. Endocrine Division, Guangdong General Hospital, Guangzhou, China.
108. Novel Strategies to Evaluate Drug Targets and Gene and Environment Interactions. 2015 WHI Investigator Meeting, Bethesda, MD
109. Obesity in the Women's Health Initiative: What is the role of genetics. 2015 WHI Investigator Meeting, Bethesda, MD
110. Epidemiology of Global Cardiometabolic Health: Past, Present and Future. Fuwai Hospital, Beijing Union Medical College, Beijing, China

111. Environmental Endocrine Disruptors, Endogenous Sex Hormones and Risk of Cardio-metabolic Disorders. Beijing University, Beijing, China
 112. Critical, Systematic, and Comprehensive Assessment of Medical Literature. Xian, China
 113. Ruijing Distinguished Speaker's Lecture: From sex steroids to dietary and environmental endocrine disruptors: Diabetes' sex axis and the important role of sex-hormone binding globulin in clinical risk stratification and interventions. National Center for Metabolic Disease Research and Ruijing Hospital, Shanghai, China
 114. Understand interactions between genetic and environmental determinants to control the chronic disease epidemic of our time: incorporating genetic and biochemical markers for risk assessment. Chinese Center for Disease Control and Prevention, Beijing, China
 115. Symposium Speaker: Assessing CV therapeutic targets using genomics and epidemiology. 18th China Heart Congress, Beijing, China
 116. Understand and improve cardiometabolic health of human population. Zhejiang University Medical School, Hangzhou, China
 117. Incorporating systems biology into observational and interventional studies to excavate and understand gene-diet interactions. USDA Human Nutrition Research Center on Aging, Tufts University.
 118. Pathways analysis of genomic drivers for cardiometabolic outcomes. AHA Scientific Sessions, Orlando, FL
 119. Plenary Speaker: Recent advances in translational sciences of cardiometabolic Health, 19th Scientific Meeting of the Chinese Diabetes Society, Suzhou, China
 120. Endocrine Grand Round, New Strategies in Studying Molecular Markers for Cardio-metabolic Health, Chinese University of Hong Kong (CUHK) Faculty of Medicine and Prince of Wales Hospital, Hong Kong, China
- 2016:
121. Symposium Speaker: Biomarkers for cardiometabolic health, South China Heart Congress (SCC), Guangzhou, China
 122. Plenary Speaker: Ending coronary heart disease by 2050. South China Heart Congress, Guangzhou, China
 123. XIV International Magnesium Symposium: Magnesium Supplementation and Counseling on Glycemic and Genomic Outcomes Among Overweight Pregnant Women, Rome, Italy
 124. 34th International Symposium on Diabetes and Nutrition: Genome-wide and candidate strategies in assessing potential metabolic therapeutic targets and gene x diet interaction along the insulin signaling and adipogenesis pathways. Prague, Czech Republic
 125. Invited Speaker (Medicine Grand Round): New strategies in assessing potential metabolic therapeutic targets and gene x diet interaction Grand Round, Department of Medicine, University of Federico II Naples, Italy
 126. Improving global cardiometabolic health: An epidemiologist's perspectives on prediction, precision, prevention, personalized, population, and policy; Faculty of Medical Science, Anglia Ruskin University, Cambridge, UK
 127. Incorporating 6P analytics to improve global health: prediction, precision, prevention, personalized, population, and policy. World Life Science Conference. Beijing, China
 128. Tracing environmental influences from modern to ancient to improve global cardiometabolic health. Joint Seminar of the Departments of Pharmacology and Medicine. The University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong.
 129. Promoting methodological rigor in clinical research for physician-scientists. Department of Endocrinology, Guangdong General Hospital/Guangdong Academy of Medical Sciences
 130. Award Symposium Mentoring young investigators of diverse background. Council on Functional Genomics and Translational Biology, American Heart Association Annual Scientific Conference, New Orleans.

2017:

131. Understanding gene-environmental interaction to improve cardio-metabolic health. Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai, NY
132. Plenary Speaker: Intake of Dietary Carbohydrates for Cardio-metabolic Health. Guangzhou Nutrition Symposium, Guangzhou, China
133. Plenary Speaker: Whole Grains and Health: A Matter of Quality. China Nutrition Congress, Beijing, China
134. Plenary Speaker: From sex steroids to environmental endocrine disruptors: diabetes' sexy axis and its binding barometer for clinical risk stratification and intervention. American Epidemiology Society, New York.
135. Keynote Speaker: Understanding gene-environment interaction to improve both individual and population health. 13th Chinese Nutrition Congress. Beijing, China.
136. Plenary Speaker: Dietary Carbohydrate and Cardiovascular Health: A matter of quality. 13th Chinese Nutrition Congress. Beijing, China.
137. Plenary Speaker: Becoming an independent scholar in biomedical sciences and public health. An evening symposium at the 13th Chinese Nutrition Congress. Beijing, China
138. From molecules to populations, applying 6-P analytics to curb the epidemics of our time. Institute of Environmental Health, Chinese Center for Disease Control (CDC). Beijing, China
139. Why should endocrinologist and epidemiologist be the core and clues for the practice of precision, translational, and integrative medicine in a major academic medical center? Guangdong General Hospital and Guangdong Academy of Medical Sciences, Guangzhou, China.
140. Plenary Speaker: Diabetes' Sexy Axis and Implications for Improving the Health Effects of Dietary Carbohydrate by Sex. 3rd International Carbohydrate Quality Consortium (ICQC) Meeting, Rome, Italy
141. Keynote Speaker: Mendelian Randomization, Molecular Mediation, and Prediction for Complex Diseases in Diverse Populations: A paradigm to improve drug development and nutrition intervention. Chinese Academy of Biological Sciences, Shanghai, China
142. The 116th Dr. Norman Bethune Memorial Lectureship, Causal Inference in Clinical Research. Guangdong General Hospital and Guangdong Academy of Medical Sciences, Guangzhou, China

2018:

143. Keynote Speaker: How can we end the epidemics of cardiometabolic diseases: Some thoughts to integrate prevention and treatment paradigms for optimal health of individuals and populations following 6P-3G-4I. 20th South China International Congress of Cardiology (SCC), Guangzhou, China
144. Plenary Speaker: How to interpret the 2017 AHA/ACC updated guideline for hypertension control, Special Symposium organized by the Chinese Medical Chapter of Hypertension, at the 20th SCC, Guangzhou, China
145. Biomarker-calibrated total sugars intake and risk of obesity-related cancer in the Women's Health Initiative Observational Study. American Society for Nutrient. Boston, MA
146. Ending the epidemics of cardiometabolic diseases: how far we have come, and how much more we need to do. 106th Tongji Medical Forum, Wuhan, China.
147. Ending the epidemics of cardiovascular diseases: time is now to integrate both population and individual strategies for prevention. The Chinese CDC. Beijing, China.
148. Plenary Speaker: Some thoughts about developing an integrative framework for prevention to end the No.1 killer epidemics of our time. Guangdong society of cardiology annual meeting. Guangzhou, China.

149. Speaker and Discussion Leader: Understanding genetics, epigenetics, and gene-diet interaction to improve health outcomes. Gordon Conference on Epigenetics of Diabetes and Relevant Metabolic Outcomes. Hong Kong, China
150. Plenary Speaker/Chair: Nature vs. Nurture, Causal Inferences on Health Outcomes across Lifespans and Generations: Has Anyone Seen the Marriage? China Heart Congress. Beijing, China
151. Nutrition and Human Health: A 21st Century Agenda. Hongkong Polytechnic University, Hongkong, China
152. Plenary Speaker: 1) Dietary Carbohydrates and Cardiometabolic Health with Emphasis on Biomarkers and Genetics Interaction. 2) Improve Carbohydrate Quality for Better Health. 36th International Diabetes and Nutrition Symposium European Diabetes and Nutrition Group. Opatija, Croatia
153. Plenary Speaker: Cardiometabolic Health in the 21st Century: A Global Agenda. At the University at Buffalo International Week. Buffalo, NY
154. How to Communicate Effectively in Preventive Cardiology. Cardiology 365.net

2019:

155. Improving Global Cardiometabolic Health: Opportunities & Challenges in the 21st Century. Cardiology Grand Rounds. Rhode Island Hospital, RI
156. Speaker and symposium chair. Sex-hormones and Their Binding Protein (SHBG) in Clinical Risk Stratification and Intervention: Ready for Primetime. 21st South China Cardiology Congress. Guangzhou, China
157. Plenary Speaker: Improving Global Cardiometabolic Health in the 21st Century: Why, What, and How? 21st South China Cardiology Congress. Guangzhou, China
158. Speaker and symposium chair. Clinical Research Methodology in Cardiovascular Medicine: Rationale and Strategies. 21st South China Cardiology Congress. Guangzhou, China
159. The Why, How, and What of Global Cardiometabolic Health. Lanzhou University, Lanzhou, China
160. Improving Global Cardiometabolic Health: Challenges and Opportunities in the 21st Century. HUST-Brown Day, Wuhan, China
161. Keynote. Dietary Carbohydrates and Health – Moving Forward with a Century of Epidemiological Observations and Metabolic Experiments; Dietary Carbohydrates and Health Outcomes: A matter of quality interactions. The 14th China Nutrition Congress and the 11th Asian Pacific Conference on Clinical Nutrition, Nanjing, China.
162. Plenary Speaker. Nutritional Endocrine Disruptors, Sex Differences, Sex-Hormone Binding Globulin and Cardiometabolic Health: A New Diet-Heart Hypothesis in the 21st Century. The 14th China Nutrition Congress and the 11th Asian Pacific Conference on Clinical Nutrition, Nanjing, China.
163. Advancing Global Cardiometabolic Health: Why, What, and How? Beijing University School of Public Health, Beijing, China.
164. Ending the Epidemics of Cardiovascular Disease in the 21st Century. Asian Heart Congress, Shenzhen, China
165. Ending the Epidemics of Cardiovascular Disease, Zhengjiang University, Hangzhou, China
166. Sexy Axis in Cardiometabolic Health, Zhejiang University Second Affiliate Hospital, Zhejiang, China
167. What and How Should We Eat for Optimal Health, The 8th Guangdong Nutrition Society Conference, Guangzhou, China
168. Global Cardiometabolic Health: A 21st Century Agenda, Guangzhou, China Diet, Physical Activities, and Health. Sichun Agriculture University, Chengdu, Sichun, China

169. Precision Nutrition: Past, Present, and Future. Hongkong PolyTechnic University, Hongkong, China

2020:

170. A vision for cardiovascular research in diverse populations. NHLBI Intramural Program, Bethesda, MD

171. Novel risk factors for cardiometabolic risk stratification, NHLBI, NIH, Bethesda, MD

172. Risk factors for COVID-19 and Diabetes. The International COVID19 and Diabetes Summit. San Francisco, CA

173. Keynote Speaker. Dietary carbohydrates and health outcomes: A matter of quality. The 8th Nutritional Congress of Nutritional Oncology (NCNO), Beijing (virtual), China

174. Diabetes and Obesity Scientific Interest Group, the NHLBI WHI (virtual), Providence, RI

175. Diet, microbiota, and chronic diseases, Barilla Foundation for Food & Nutrition, Parma (virtual), Italy

2021:

176. Dietary Carbohydrate Quality and Health, 25th Chinese Nutrition Society Forum, Beijing (virtual), China

177. Diets as environmental endocrine disruptors in relation to cancer risk. Chinese Oncology and Nutrition Society Annual Meeting (Virtual), Beijing, China

178. Metals and Cardiometabolic Health: Toxic and Essential. University of São Paulo (USP) Medical School and Hospital Das Clinicas São Paulo, São Paulo, Brazil

179. Current Status and Future Direction in Global Cardiometabolic Health. Universidade Federal de São Paulo (UNIFESP), São Paulo, Brazil

180. Environmental Metals, dietary minerals, and cardiometabolic outcomes. The Federal University of Pernambuco (UFPE), Recife, Brazil

2022:

181. Keynote Speaker: Integrative Approach for Complex Diseases Prevention and Management and Beyond, Hongkong, China (Virtual)

182. Invited Speaker: Nutritional Classification of Dietary Carbohydrates. The Institute for the Advancement of Food and Nutrition Sciences (Virtual)

183. Invited Speaker: Improving Global Cardiometabolic Health: What, why, and how. Department of Epidemiology, UCSD, San Diego, CA (Virtual)

184. Keynote Speaker: Molecular Epidemiology of Complex Diseases: From Risk Factors to Causal Pathways for Prevention with Precision. Complex Disease Prediction, Prevention, Management and Beyond, FASEB Catalyst Conferences (Virtual)

185. Plenary Speaker: Molecular Epidemiology of Complex Diseases: From risk factors to an integrative multi-level causal framework for Prevention, South China Cardiology (SCC) (Virtual)

186. Plenary Speaker: An Integrative Multi-levels Framework for Causal Inference to Improve Cardiometabolic Health and Personalized Prevention. The 5th World Hypertension League Congress (Virtual)

187. Plenary Speaker: Weight Management, Micronutrients, and Supplements in Diabetes. The 39th Annual Symposium of the Diabetes Nutrition Study Group (DNSG), Athen, Greece.

188. The CAPES/PRINT Fellowship award in preventive medicine (3 lectures): the Universidade de Sao Paulo (USP), Universidade Federal de Sao Paulo (UNIFESP), and Universidade Federal de Pernambuco (UFPE), Brazil.

189. Invited Speaker: Improving global cardiometabolic health: challenges and opportunities. School of Medicine, University of Missouri Health Science Center, Columbia, MO

2023:

190. Keynote Speaker: Improving global cardiometabolic health: my journey as a “disease detective” into the 21st century. Missouri Forward Initiative, University of Missouri, Columbia, MO
191. Invited Speaker: Improving global cardiometabolic health: challenges and opportunities. University of California, Irvine (UCI), Irvine, CA.
